Our mission is to prepare teachers who are reflective scholars (access and learn), instructional leaders (model and mentor), and global citizens (respond and challenge) and to serve the community and profession promoting and facilitating best practice in education. Our mission is

Master of Science in EDUCATION

Where the Art and Science of Effective Teaching WORK TOGETHER.

- Begin the Foundations with a summer cohort and earn 15 hours by the end of the fall semester.
- New cohorts begin every summer.
- The Foundations is practitioner-based and oriented to the needs of professional educators.
- You will be studying and developing resources that both you and your school can put into use right away.
- A mixture of online/face-to-face/hybrid classes means that you can structure your degree at a pace and within an area of study that meets your professional needs.
- Small class sizes and personal attention from faculty members.
- Certain prior graduate coursework is transferable and applicable to the Master’s Degree. This is evaluated on a case-by-case basis.
- People who have completed the Transition to Teaching program can apply that coursework to their graduate degree.
- Research within the program can be structured to meet the needs of your classroom/school.
- Classes are structured to accommodate working schedules.
- Depending on the needs of the student, the graduate program can be completed in as little as 18 months.
- A quality graduate degree at an affordable cost.
- Teachers can professionalize their teaching license for 10 years by completing a master’s degree instead of repeating the process every 5 years.
- Books and university fees are not included in fee amount.
- Transfer and accepted prior graduate credit reduces overall tuition costs.
- Payment plans are available.

The Director of Graduate Studies and the IU East Financial Aid office will assist students in exploring student loans and financial aid as needed.
